Chairman Robert Miguel
Ak-Chin Indian Community
Arizona Indian Gaming Association

Sape Mas Ma (Hello Friends!),

Welcome to the 2023 Arizona Indian Gaming Association (AIGA) Expo, to the Ak-Chin Indian Community, and to Harrah's Ak-Chin Casino Resort! As both the Chairman of the Ak-Chin Indian Community and the AIGA, I am humbled to you have joined us at this year's event, where we'll showcase over three decades of Tribal Gaming in our great state of Arizona. The journey of our Nations, Tribes, and Communities in securing and safeguarding our inherent rights to gaming on Indigenous lands showcases resilience at its finest. Let's gather to celebrate these incredible achievements!

The narrative of Tribal Gaming — our collective narrative — has its roots deep within our Tribal Nations. From the outset, Arizona's Tribal Leaders foresaw gaming as a potential avenue for economic growth, benefiting our communities. This foresight has since forged many bonds, alliances, and collaborations within Arizona and across Indian Country, further reinforcing our Tribal governments and uplifting our economies. Reflecting on Tribal Gaming's outstanding success, we'll also pay homage to those who've walked this path alongside us.

Please enjoy your time with with us, enjoy networking and getting to know one another, and be sure to let our AIGA and Harrah's Ak-Chin team know if there is anything you need.

Warm Regards,
Chairman Robert Miguel

THANK YOU SPONSORS!

2023 AIGA Expo Concludes

In 1987, the U.S. Supreme Court affirmed Indian tribes' inherent rights to operate gaming on Indian land. In 1988, Congress passed the Indian Gaming Regulatory Act (IGRA) affirming Tribal sovereignty and establishing the statutory framework for Indian gaming. IGRA is intended to:

"Provide a statutory foundation for Indian gaming operations as a means of promoting economic development, tribal self-sufficiency and strong tribal government."

IGRA promotes Tribal economic development as federal policy. IGRA also established the regulatory framework and standards for the conduct of Indian gaming, including:

- Federal regulation through the National Indian Gaming Commission
- Requirement of a tribal-state compact between a state and each tribe engaged in gaming
- Tribal regulation through respective Tribal gaming regulatory agencies
- State review through state agencies, e.g., the Arizona Department of Gaming

The Arizona Indian Gaming Association (AIGA):

- Maintains and supports a strong commitment to Tribal sovereignty and governmental authority.
- Protects and promotes the welfare of Tribes by supporting Tribal gaming enterprises on Arizona Indian lands
- Serves as an educational, legislative and public policy resource for Tribes, policy makers, and the public on Indian gaming issues
- Is committed to maintaining and protecting Tribal sovereign governmental authority

AIGA Key Objectives

- Protect sovereign rights to operate Tribal government gaming and exclusivity
- Inform the public of the many benefits of Tribal government gaming
- Educate the public on the distinction between Tribal government gaming and commercial gaming
- Share economic impact data and personal stories of those that benefit from Tribal government gaming

The impact of Tribal Gaming

SELF-RELIANCE

The Indian Gaming Regulatory Act requires that funds from gaming must be used to promote economic development, self-sufficiency and strengthen tribal governments.

ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT

Tribal Gaming brings economic development to Arizona reservations, helping tribes meet longstanding deficits in social and economic conditions. In doing so, it also engenders new economic activity for the households and businesses that supply labor, goods, and services to Tribal casinos and governments, helping especially the economies of remote and rural counties.
